Using Options to Overcome Fear and Emotional Obstacles

Speaker: Patrick Ceresna

The psychological aspect of investing is often a major obstacle for investors to overcome and master. It is important to think of options as a valuable tool that can help you manage emotional obstacles. We will take a deeper dive into understanding various option strategies, such as options collars, and when they should or should not be used.

Understanding Options Pricing and the Greeks to Optimize your Trading Narratives

Speaker: Patrick Ceresna

Picking the right strike price and duration on an option is critical to your trading and investing success. Understanding how an option is priced and how different options behave is critical to building asymmetric trades. Join Patrick Ceresna for a deep dive into how options are priced, how they behave, and how to build a trade that is aligned with your investment narratives.
